

Bachmann Beaujolais

*“Unlike the HPV vaccine,
it won’t make you retarded.”*

25.36 liquid ounces

(And those are American ounces, not European “metric” milliliters, whatever the fuck those are.)

The Bachmann Vineyard is situated on the gently rolling penneplain of backwoods, tea-party Minnesota. It takes almost no government funding — and that’s almost enough to say “none.”

GOVERNMENT WARNING : Giving money away to poor people is a dangerous, stupid and expensive idea, especially when there are so many needy corporations and Super PACs.

We harvest our grapes at the peak of their ripeness to assure a full bodied, bold taste — no “fruitiness.” And then we submit our wine to reparative therapy, just to be safe.

Handcrafted and pleasantly smooth, our beaujolais, although the name does sound French, is as American a wine as the ones our forefathers made on the Mayflower. It is well balanced and structured.

This wine goes perfectly with one-man-one-woman meals.

The American flag assures you that almost none of this product was processed or assembled in China.
